

To our car show community,

One of the things we appreciate most about the car show community here in our part of the state is the way everyone supports one another. We all know how much time, planning, and hard work goes into organizing and hosting a successful event, and we want to do everything we can to support the other shows that make this hobby so special.

Unfortunately, even before we saw this weekend's forecast calling for the possibility of a Nor'easter and what would be our second rainout, there were already many car shows scheduled over the coming weeks. If this Sunday's forecast for rain holds true, there is the potential for 14 different car shows to take place on our third rain date, October 4th.

After careful consideration, our Car Show Committee has decided to postpone this year's show until April 2027, with the exact Sunday date to be announced in early January, 2027.

Our plan is to move this fall's event to April 2027 while continuing to hold our annual September show in 2027, as always, on the Sunday after Labor Day. That means REACH will host two car shows in 2027 - our rescheduled 2026 event in April and our annual Fall Car Show on September 12, 2027.

We encourage everyone to get out and support the many outstanding car shows taking place before the cold weather arrives. These events are only successful because of the incredible people who attend them, and we hope you'll help make the remainder of the season a great one for everyone. Thank you for your understanding and continued support. We look forward to seeing all of you in April 2027 for a fantastic kickoff to the new car show season!
